. This double-sided tape is great for all you future art or craft projects. Now what's so special about this strip of tape? The two kinds of magnetic particles contained in this tape are non-damaging to your art or craft. The paint's magnetic properties leave the surface strong, yet flexible enough to move across the surface. The tape also dries very quickly, so even if you're a little impatient, you don't have to fret about waiting for the paint to dry. This double-sided tape is safe for use on most surfaces. So if you're looking for a handy, versatile art supply for yourself or the entire family, you can't go wrong with this peel-and-stick tape.

3. Metal Foil The perfectly transparent and thin metal foil is a great finishing touch for all kinds of arts and crafts. Unlike most other types of foil, metal foil isn't toxic, so you can use this decorating tool on many surfaces, including wood, paper, and fabric. For a few different types of crafts, metal foil offers such great benefits. Here are a few things you can do with metal foil: Use it to create a neon effect on paper. Simply arrange the metal foil on a piece of paper, and then use a pencil to draw around the edges of the paper. Press the drawn lines into the metal foil to create a striking neon pattern. Use it to create stylish patterns on fabric. Cut the metal foil into a few strips and arrange them on the fabric, carefully following your desired pattern. This is a great way to create a fun, unique look for a baby's or children's craft project. Apply it to the page of a sketchbook or journal to add an extra creative dimension to the page. Use it to create hot air balloon kits. Cut out different sizes of circles and rectangles of metal foil and fold them into balloons. You can also use them for a great variety of different craft ideas. 4. Colored Paints Here are a few reasons why using colored paints on your art project is a great idea: Colored paint is more versatile than regular acrylic paint. You can use a range of different color palettes for your project, and you can change them up over time. Paint is less expensive than 82157476af
